LITON, ILL., Sept. 24.—A unique confidence game s worked near here Saturday. Zeb Brown, an and wealthy farmer, was visited at his house old and wealthy farmer, was visited at his house by a smooth and well-dressed stranger, who said he represented a New York syndicate purchasing Illinois lands. He and Mr. Brown agreed upon a price for a piece of land, the figure being exorbitant, and the stranger proposed that $2,500 be put ap as a forfeit by both parties to secure the saie and purchase. Mr. Brown came to Alton and drew that amount from the bank, the stranger remaining in the neighborhood on the pretext of buying other lands. When Brown returned with the money in the afternoon the stranger counted it and returned to Brown what was apparently the same package, but an hour or two later investigation showed that it was a roll of blank paper strips cut in the shape of paper currency, with a $20 bill at the top and bottom. The stranger and a considerate with him were not then to be found. The wires have been freely used in sending their descriptions abroad.

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 24.—There was a strange cene in a church in Burke County yesterday ening. People who had occasion to enter the liquor. An investigation of the case was at once begun, and a most disgraceful state of affairs was brought to light. The dead man was Horace Carowell, and, in company with two other abandoned fellows, John Mitchell and Columbus Mitchell, he had gone to the church to have a drunken spree. The three had purchased five quarts of brandy and in a night drank it all save half a night. When device the mitchells haif a pint. When daylight came the Mitchells left. Cardwell lay unconscious on the floor. He never awoke, and was found horribly swollen and distorted. The men had lighted the lamps in the hurch and had a regular orgy.

MARSHAL BAZAINE DEAD. The Man who Surrendered Metz Without a Struggle Dies Suddenly in

A dispatch from Madrid announces that General Bazaine died in that city yesterday. His death, the immediate cause of which was heart disease created some surprise, although his condition has been very feeble since the attempt made by French soldier to assassinate him last year. Nothing had been said or published about him lately, and the announcement of his death recalled him to many persons who had almost entirely forgotten him. His exile has been spent for the most part in a condition bordering upon squalor, and the little money which came to him from time to Time was contributed by some of the few persons who adhered to the belief that he was a victim of circumstances and the ingratitude of the country he served faithfully and well.

A Wheat Bealer Charged with Theft.
REVELATIONS WHICH MAY INVOLVE A NUMBER OF MINNEAPOLIS BUSINESS MEN.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., Sept. 24.—W. G. Hanley, a well-known commission dealer and a member of the firm of Peterson & Hanley, has been arrested on a warrant charging him with stealing 15,000
busuels of wheat from the Minneapolis Union Elevator, in Southeast Minneapolis. The elevator company is said to have discovered that about 50,000 bushels of wheat have been stolen. It was done by overloading cars. The cars leaving the elevators were to have contained 5,000 bushels
ach. It is now positively known that they were overloaded, and that to the extent of 50,100, and sometimes 150 bushels. Hanley had been D. C.
Moak & Co.'s cashier and bookkeeper. A rather singular coincidence in connection with this affair
is the unexpected suspension of D. C. Moak & Co.
grain dealers. The firm made an assignment to protest. Others suspected of complicity are well known wheat men, and the announcement of their names would cause a profound sensation.

ber 27, 1870, Bazaine surrendered. One hundred and seventy thousand private soldiers, over six thousand officers, fifty generals, and three marshais of France were made prisoners of war on this occasion, the largest number of men ever taken at one time. Bazaine fied to England. This awful blow to the military pride of the French people was followed, in 1873, by the trial of Bazaine by court-martial for having failed to do his duty. He was sentenced to degradation and death. MacMahon, president of the French republic, commuted the sentence to imprisonment for twenty years in a fortress. Bazaine was taken to the He sainte Marguerite, in the Mediterranean Sea, from whence he escaped after nine months' imprisonment. He visited Germany and England, then removed to Spain and made his residence in Madrid.

White Cloud's Narrow Escape. NEARLY LYNCHED AT A POW-WOW FOR DECLARING HE WOULD SIGN THE TREATY.

At the big pow-wow of Indians to consider the question of signing a treaty at Standing Rock Saturday, Sloux from all over the reservation came in and assembled in a hollow a few miles below Standing Rock. In the absence of Chief John Gali, Sitting Bull assumed to be leader, and wore a more than usually feroclous look. The crafty old savage feels ugly over the fact that Chief Gali and not he was sent to Washington, and is more than ever determined to defeat the object of the commissioners' visit. He opened the proceedings with an address, in which he urged the Indians not to sign the treaty, and hinted at treachery on the part of Chief Gali. Black Thunder also advised the Indians to reject the treaty. Then young White Cloud, a graceful, handsome Sloux, ascended the little knoil of ground used as a speaker's stand and said: "I have listened to the talks of our old leaders, Sitting Bull and Black Thunder. They are opposed to the treaty. They speak too hastily and too rashly. Their words should be carefully weighed before leaving the tongue. They know not what they say. The treaty is for our benefit, and I, for one, shall sign." There was a dead caim for a moment after White Cloud had concluded. Then, headed by Sitting Bull, the horde of braves made a rush for White Cloud, and would no doubt have killed him had not Chief Gali unexpectedly appeared at that instant, and held the maddened Indians at bay. Sitting Bull, Black Thunder and others of the leaders quickly peaked away and the council broke up. Standing Rock. In the absence of Chief John Gall,

Recovered from Hydrophobia. LITTLE WILLIE MOEHL GIVES THE ST. LOUIS DOCTORS

Leading physicians of St. Louis are greatly puzzled over the case of Willie Moehl. The lad is 14 years old. On Friday afternoon he developed violent symptoms of hydrophobia. First he lost con-sciousness, then he revived and began barking like a dog and biting at the furniture. The neignbors came, accompanied by the physicians, and found the boy frothing at the mouth and chewing up carpets. He snaried and barked and fought desperately when an attempt was made to overpower him. It required four men to bind him, and he was carried to a bed and fastened to the posts with ropes. As the sight of the people seemed to increase the terrible malady, the physicians ordered everyone from the room. In order to determine if it was hydrophobia, a small pan of water was brought in the room and the patient went frantic at the sight of it. The physicians then agreed that it was hydrophobia. The parents were told that there was no hope for the iad and that his death was liable to occur at any moment. After barking, biting, and frothing all night, he became unconscious and remained in that state for six hours. He woke up Saturday afternoon and wanted to know what he was tied up for. The physicians were thunderstruck. The boy was released, and it was discovered that he had no recollection of what had happened during the twenty-four nours. The physicians say the case is without parallel. The boy seems rully recovered. He says he has been bitten by dogs several times this summer. like a dog and biting at the furniture. The neigh

Paris, Sept. 22.—The announcement that the British peerage is about to be increased by two Marshal Rankin, Detective Keily and three others were in the express car, where it is supposed the hottest fight would be made. Eight miles east of Harwood, in one of the gloomiest spots in Texas, the engineer was surprised to observe a red iantern swinging across the track. He stopped the train, and immediately two men jumped into the train, and immediately two men jumped into the cab. Two or three others of the gang searched face coaches until they found Conductor Shackle-lerd, whom they made a prisoner. As the conjector was marched along at the muzzle of a revolver the passengers grasped the situation. A panic ensued, which was party allayed by one of the bandits shouting: "Keep still, you cowards; the conductor was marched to the engine and them ordered to uncouple the first car from the rist of the train. then to swear that it had never been suggested to him to take it, but that he did it of his own free will. He also, when again hypnotized, absolutely refused to reveal the identity of the suggester of the theft, but when told, upon seeing the suggester, to step up to him and say: "I am very glad to see you. Please sing me the 'Marselliaise,' "he did so at once upon being reawakened. Put to sleep again, he again denied that any suggestion to steal had been made to him; but when told, upon seeing the suggester, to go up to him and say: "I remember you perfectly; it was you who told me to steal," he followed the direction.

The practical result of the experiments is to apparently show that, while a person obtaining hypnotic power over another and directing his victim to commit some crime, can at the same time, by a mere command, make sure that the victim will never reveal his name in answer to a direct question and will assume personal responsibility for the crime, the suggester can never be sure that his victim will not expose the suggester's identity in some indirect way. The power of the hypnotizer apparently extends no further than to secure the literal obedience by the victim to a certain categorical direction.

In he laborers. They came from New York on their way to the West. First-class passage was refused to them. The customs police on this side said the law required them to be treated the same as packages in bond, and they were locked up in a boxcar and so brought through. The man who let let them out of the car incurred a fine of $150. The law really applies only to Chinese laborers, and the customs authorities have apologized for the indignities offered, and hope to escape further lili-consequences.

An Unexpected Witness Produced. THE FINDER OF MISS PAULLIN'S MONEY APPEARS-MANAGER PAIS ACQUITTED. During the trial in Philadelphia Saturday in Judge Wilson's court of Manager Chas. C. Fais, charged by Miss Louise E. Paullin with robbing her of $1,500, an unexpected witness was presented in the person of Chas. Weeks, property man at the Chestnut Street Theater, who put an entirely new light on the loss of the money. He said: "I was absent from the theater when Miss Pauliin lainted. I went to the theater about 10 o'clock the next morning, and when I went into the dressing-room to light the gas I found the $1,000 and the $500 bill. I found it under the dressing-case. At that time I thought it was property money—stage or imitation money. I placed it in my vest pocket. After the rehearsal on the Sunday following I examined it more closely and found it was genuine money. I was drinking very heavily and broke into the money. I broke the $500 bill. When I came to I found that I had spent a portion of the $500. I then put the $1,000 in the little pocket of my coat, and sewed it up. I first learned of the loss of Miss Paullin about a week after it occurred. I deposited $500 of the money in the Western Savings Fund. I had some of my own earning in the bank, making in all $700. This I have handed to the district-attorney, being all I have in the world." Weeks was at once arrested.
